

Abstract of the Disclosure

A game using 4 die, 3 are icosahedrons and 1 is a cube. The icosahedrons have a different consonant on each face of the die. The icosahedrons die has all the consonants of the English language represented except for the letter Y. The cube has a different vowel on each face of the die. The cube die has all the vowels of the English language represented including the letter Y. The dice provide a randomness of letters in order to challenge someone's word forming ability and includes the element of chance.